A WELCHING BLOC
YOUR SILVER DOLLAR
RULES FOR WIVES
TWO GOVERNMENTS

By Arthur Brisbane
(Copyright 1932 By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)
IT IS REPORTED seriously that England, France and Italy have united to "bar the payments of debts" to us. They are said to have arranged what might be called a "welching bloc," as though three bookmakers should agree not to pay what they owe, hoping to make the welching less unpleasant by making it co-operative.

THIS WELCHING plan by European friends that came in hand, tears in eyes, begging for help in the war, may hurt them more than us. We can afford a $10,000,000,000 welch-ing process if we must, whereas, on future occasions the welchers may discover that deliberately swindling a good lender, with plenty more that might be lent, is not profitable.

Also, there are several ways of killing a cat, and several ways of recovering a debt.
Some day a forceful American government may reveal some methods of debt recovery to the "welching bloc."

MR. MILLS, secretary of the treasury, issues the first $1 bills with his signature. Like other $1 bills, they raise an important question.

Take a $1 bill and read on it in large type, under a picture of George Washington, "One silver dollar."

Nothing is said about gold, it's a silver dollar with Uncle Sam's on it worth 100 cents, whereas government gold bonds sell below par.

A GOVERNMENT bond is the government's promise to pay you the face value of the bond in gold of the present standard of weight and fineness.

Your dollar bill is nothing but silver plus the country's name, and it is worth more than the bond.

To the average citizen who knows no more about finance than the average high financier, this indicates that Uncle Sam, if he chose, could finance his affairs without going to the bankers that he has created, saying, "won't you please lend me a little money at high interest rates."

IN ENGLAND, a gentleman was accused of enticing away another man's wife. The husband sued.
The learned Justice McCordie decided against him, saying among other things:

"I must tell you that a woman's body does not belong to the husband. It is her own property; it is not his. A woman can leave her husband by her own free will. She may choose her own occupation.
She may take her own political party. She may profess her own separate religious creed. She may decide whether she will bear children or not, and she may decide when each child shall be born. The married woman of this country has gained her freedom."

THAT sounds radical for an English justice. Another learned British jurist, Sir Thomas Edward Sturton, reversed the opinion of Justice McCordie, who is a bachelor, saying:

stadter committee investigating the New York City government,

Schwartz, told him to deal

More than 475 graves in ceme-

Requests for donations of flowers to decorate the grave of every vet-

R. hall, East State st., as early as

Trader Suspended For Bear Activity

NEW YORK, May 26.—The New York Stock Exchange took its most drastic action today against a member for Bear activity thus far in the 2½ year decline.

Daniel Manning McKee, a private floor trader, was suspended for one year, under provisions of the constitution forbidding the offering of stock in a manner designed to demoralize the market.

The announcement said that although McKee's offer "were not accepted and did not cause a decline in prices," he was found guilty of the charges by the governing committee.

LISBON, May 26.—A report of the examination of the records of township officers and justices of the peace for Columbiana county, recently compiled by Ovid G. Walker, assistant state examiner, dis-closes 26 findings totaling $345.57.
A copy of the report has been received by County Auditor John H.
Irwin and Prosecuting Attorney John E. Bauknecht, and immediately upon its receipt, by Prosecutor Bauknecht, he immediately took steps to collect the findings referred to in this report, and also unpaid findings noted in a previous report.
Findings range from $1 to $79.95.

St. Clair Court Hit
Assistant State Examiner A. H.
Harlett filed a report on the office of Justice W. H. Calvin of St. Clair township, reading as follows:

"Watches, etc. are still being accepted as security for the payment of fines and costs. At the time this audit was made all watches had been redeemed. However, two diamond rings mentioned in the last report are still in the possession of Justice Calvin.

"One dollar fines still seem to be the rule in this court for violations of the auto laws. In other words it seems as if Mr. Calvin is more interested in collecting his costs than in seeing that justice is being rendered."

"The attention of Justice Calvin again is called to the fact that cases

Walker, Seabury In Clash Again

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, May 26.—Mayor James J. Walker charged on the stand today that his being called as a witness before the Hofstadter legislative committee was in fact merely "an examination before trial" and a prelude to requesting the governor to remove him from office.

"It begins to look as if someone were after my life," he asserted.
Samuel Seabury, chief counsel of the committee who is examining the mayor as to his administration of the city, replied that the mayor's outburst was nothing but "a cheap political stump speech."

KNIFE WIELDER KILLS CHILD, 8, STABS 2 OTHERS

40-Year-Old Man Plunges
Into Group of School Children

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, May 26.—A knife
wielder who called himself "Mystery Jake" turned on a crowd of school children today, stabbed one girl to death and perhaps fatally injured two more.

He was captured a few moments later by Patrolman Charles Mis-chely, on school traffic duty nearby as hundreds of persons on their way to work gathered and threatened mob action.

Asks To Be Killed
The man incoherently muttered that he "hate a call to kill millions," and called on the patrolman to "kill me, kill me, I have not killed enough."

The dead girl was Rose Parker, 8.
The critically injured were Lena De Sand 12, and Elaine Mackin, 8.
They were on their way to St. Cecellia's school at East 151st street and Kinsman road, near where the attack occurred.

The man, who gave his name as Jake Gordon, 40, suddenly plunged into a group of children, brandishing a knife and without warning slashed the throat of the Parker girl, witnesses said. Then he turned wildly on the other two girls and cut them about the throat.

Attacker Submits Screams of the children attracted Patrolman Mischely, who caught the man in the middle of the street.
The attacker submitted to arrest without further violence.

Police said the man talked insanely and boasted that he was "Mystery Jake" with some illustration that he had not spoken a word to anyone for a year and a half.

Ford Parts

(By Associated Press)
CANTON, O., May 26.—More than 200 old employees of the Tim-ken Rollery Bearing Co. have been recalled to work today as release orders from automobile companies speeded up production at the plant.

An order for a carload of bearings from Ford Motor Co. is directly responsible for a considerable part of the increase, officials said.
The order was received the first of the week with shipment specified for Saturday.

No new men are being hired, officials said, and those recalled were taken from the company's lists of men who had been laid off.

transport the veterans across Ohio on state highway 50, by way of ing through Wilmington, Wash-

ENTIRE EXCISE TAX SCHEDULE IS RE-WRITTEN

Headlong Action Follows
Finance Committee Recommendation

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON,
Associated Press Staff Writer.
WASHINGTON, May 26.—In a burst of speed that signalled the end of the tax controversy, the senate today re-wrote the entire excise tax schedule of the billion dollar revenue bill.

Leaves Put Back
It placed new excise levies back in the measure so fast that at stages no one knew just what was going on. The headlong action was taken upon the recommendation of the finance committee.

Obviously tired of the tax contest and willing to accept the new compromise offered by the finance committee which met early today, the senate shouted in the new levies in rapid fire order.

The taxes on jewelry, cameras, firearms, matches, soft drinks, candy, boats, cosmetics and toilet preparations provided by the house measure were restored to the senate bill along with the other excise rates on automobiles and chewing gum, previously agreed upon in the senate.

Lighten Auto Burden
All this was done to lighten the burdens from automobiles resulting from refusal of the senate to increase the rates on passenger cars and trucks from three to two per cent to four and three per cent, respectively.

The committee in rewriting the schedules, proposed to make the exemption from the admissions tax apply on tickets of 30 and less. The compromise bill previously provided a tax on all tickets over ten cents.

SMOLDERING RAGE

If one were looking for favorable signs in an unfavorable time and happened to be of a disposition to repose trust in clashes that tended to clear the air, he might say that congressional sentiment of the criticism showered impartially on the house and senate is of a definitely favorable nature.

The plea addressed to both parties in congress to lay aside partisanship and unite to balance the federal budget was not well received. It was even less well received, in fact, than it might have been, because of the important fact that it bore names of great political weight.

Alfred E. Smith, Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1928 and a contender this year, was among those who criticized the conduct of congress. There were governors, scholars, politicians; the plea couldn't be brushed aside and forgotten. It called for a reaction.

The visible reaction at this writing is one of smoldering rage. Congress feels that it has been criticized unjustly. Most of the people, on the other hand, suspect that criticism has not been harsh enough by half. They, too are experiencing a reaction of smoldering rage from another cause—bad government.

From this mental heat present in the minds of the people and their federal legislators some good will come; at least, it is pleasant to think so. Certainly it is not reasonable to imagine that such a strained relationship will continue without some successful efforts at improvement.

Congressmen must be made to realize that the people they represent are far from pleased with the conduct of public affairs. They must be convinced that the public wrath against government's criminal waste of money is something real, demanding improvement. Both sides necessarily must get good and mad sometime in the process. The people are mad; congress is mad. These are twin signs of progress on a job that should have been tackled before it grew to such monstrous proportions.

ECONOMY IN POLITICS

The pinch of hard times sharpens the contrast between those who have and those who haven't money. Wise politicians will not run the risk of losing votes by spending money ostentatiously this year.

The restraining influence of hard times may be said to have a purifying effect on politics. Unfortunately, the effect is lessened somewhat by another depression tendency to view political offices with more of longing for the salary attached thereto than the honor attendant thereon.

The extent to which influence may be felt this year is reflected in predictions that campaign chests of both major parties will be reduced to approximately one million dollars each. Money is coming hard. This is destined to be the cheapest election of modern times.

Strangely enough, if it turns out to be so, it will conform with the trend of the last decade. From evidence contained in published reports, it cost almost twice as much on a vote basis to elect Warren G. Harding in 1920 as it did to elect Herbert Hoover in 1928. With the exception of the 1923 election, the cost-per-vote has been declining since Grover Cleveland's second term, when the high mark of 45 cents was reached.

The total cost of electing a president can only be guessed, and inaccurately at that. It has been charged that the national committee's expenditures represent less than one-third of the actual expenditures; that from 20 to 30 million would represent more nearly the cost of the election. Significantly, the candidate with the largest known expenditure has been the victor every year, except that of 1916, when the Democrats elected Woodrow Wilson with half the reported expenditure Republicans made for Charles Evans Hughes.

Campaign expenditures are to be made an issue in this state in the contest for the governorship. If signs can be trusted, Governor White already has made reference to his "rich opponent," David S. Ingalls. It is an ironic mixture of strength and weakness; Mr. Ingalls has received support because he is wealthy enough to seek the governorship for the honor, but has been criticized at the same time because he is wealthy enough to finance a thorough campaign. The real culprit, of course, is the iniquitous direct primary, which makes of politics a series of expensive personal battles.

What Others Say

Cincinnatians not only are happy to have the Association of National Advertisers as their guests, but they are deeply interested in the discussions that are taking place at the Netherland Plaza this week, for they realize that advertising has a function of extraordinary responsibility in the difficult period of readjustment the country is now passing through.

Advertising at any time is a vital factor in the economic process as it has developed in America. Without its finely adjusted mechanism for creating markets and thereby creating work for men and women, the high standard of living and the efficient system of production peculiar to the United States would never have been possible.

But in the present period of stress, the country looks with special eagerness to the advertising policies of leading merchandisers. The profound readjustment of price levels and wage levels has enforced drastic changes in merchandising. Men and women, consumers, are likewise meeting new problems as they are obliged to readjust their own budgets. This creates a condition of misunderstanding in many quarters, and it is the special task of advertising to reestablish a bond of understanding between buyers and sellers, between merchandisers and their consuming public.

It is undoubted fact that manufacturers and retailers are offering greater values today than in a long time, so keen has become the competition of firms seeking to reestablish their volume of trade. But this becomes apparent to the public only as advertising fulfills its true function—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Curtis' Man "Sam"

Said to be the only real personality of all the fictitious characters mentioned by John Hughes Curtis in his book story of "negotiations" with the Lindbergh kidnapers, Samuel Vernikoff, of Philadelphia, "the man Sam," is shown after he had surrendered to Quaker City authorities for questioning. Vernikoff admitted knowing Curtis, saying that the shipbuilder had once trimmed him in a $5,000 deal over a boat.

Duce's Literature and Lead

It is obvious from the smile of Premier Benito Mussolini that he is highly pleased with the enthusiastic reception he received when he addressed a large gathering of his followers which held a demonstration to commemorate the decennial of the famous Fascist march on Rome. Note that the Duce is holding a rifle in one hand and a book in the other, symbolic of the strength and learning upon which Fascism is supposed to be founded.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

Rose Fever Is Miserable

During the last of May and early part of June, as well as a good part of July, "rose fever" is a common complaint. This period corresponds approximately with the time the roses are in bloom.

Largely because of this coincidence, the disease has been given its name. The fact is, however, that the attacks are not produced by the rose or by rose dust. Similar symptoms have been experimentally produced by the pollen of certain grasses. But even though the disease is not properly named, undoubtedly the term will persist.

Rose fever is known by other names, particularly hay fever, while often it is called spring fever. The disease may continue into August, so it might as well be called summer fever. Hay fever and other similar ailments are found to run in families. Although not definitely proved, the tendency may actually be hereditary.

Perhaps the most characteristic symptom is a sensation of heat and fullness in the eyes, with redness and discharge of tears. The smarting and itching are intense. Soon the eyes become inflamed and discharge more and more freely.

With many the most annoying complaint is the severe sneezing. This is the natural result of the pronounced irritation of the nose. There is not only sneezing, but violent sneezing. The patient is made miserable—often extremely uncomfortable, indeed.

On other occasions I have told you about the sensitivity tests. These tests are made by scratching the skin and applying some of the pollen extract. One test after another is made to determine what grass or pollen or other substance produces a reaction. Once the offending substance has been determined, a vaccine is made from it, and this vaccine is then given to the patient by hypodermic injection.

Although a great many claim to have been benefited by this method of treatment, there remains a doubt as to its real value. Certainly it has not yet been perfected so that all cases are cured. Nevertheless, the ailment is so distressing that it is worth while to think about this treatment.

If one has a tendency to hay fever it is well to consult the doctor before the regular time of attack has arrived. It may be that nasal treatment will help to lessen the severity of the symptoms. It must not be overlooked that certain food poisonings may have something to do with the trouble. All in all, the ailment is perplexing, but patient research is likely to reveal the real cause.

A very lively day is presaged from the lunar transits, but one of contradictory or "mixed influences" of the astrologers. It is probable that personal affairs, domestic, social, romantic or artistic, may engage the attention predominantly, nevertheless there may be anxiety about employment and there is a sinister influence through duplicity, fraud or peculiar methods of underhanded deal cautiously with mergers, rings, secret bodies or persons of doubtful temperament.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of conflicting issues. While private affairs may bring pleasure as well as profit, yet there are anxieties in employment and many quandaries as to singular angles to other relations. Peculiar occult or mysterious methods of attack may be coped with by alertness and strategy, but be on guard against duplicity, fraud and irregularities. A child born on this day should be energetic, practical and personally charming, gracious, leaning to the occult, mysterious and secretive, to novelty and intrigue.

NEW YORK, May 26.—The honky-tonk tempo of that sylvan stretch of West 42d street, stretching from Times Square to Eighth ave., has given what was once the heart of the Rialto a street carnival glitter. It sways and thunders with the cry of the Barker and the yank of the pulper-in.

Along the strip is perhaps New York's best known playhouse, the New Amsterdam, long home of the Follies, West 42d street's decadence set in about eight years ago when a Flea Circus combined with a museum of "strange people" lodged there and became the rotting speck in the apple barrel.

Cheap-john shops and take-joints seeped in. The famous Murphys with revolving dance floor, was supplanted by one-armed beateries. Sedate stores became auction rooms with window demonstrations and a pavement ballyhoo. Even a medicine show tom-tommed a tape-worm destroyer.

The Republic, housing the longest run in history, "Able's Irish Rose" went cheaply burlesque and featured "strip acts." Two other theaters of erstwhile respectability took a similar nose dive. A playhouse where Marlowe starred specialized in thrillers with "Eliza-crossing-the-ice" music.

The New Amsterdam, George White's Apollo, the Selwyn, and one or two others continue with class attractions, but the rest cater to vulgar tastes. Rents have sagged and respectable producers are searching for new locations. Property owners are now trying to lock their stables after the horses are gone.

After midnight furtives hawk obscene postcards from doorways. Ladies stop at windows in expectant waits. Columbus Circle dope sellers have a new pasture. And night hawks of the taxi whisper addresses of houses-of-call. As Eddie, the Times Square newsie, put it: "They have certainly loused up a good block."

One of the sly optimists is a gentleman whose Cuban sugar bonds are in default. In a mad effort to restore coupon payments he sneaks lumps of cane sugar into his pocket to toss in the sewers.

George M. Cohan tiffed with the late Robert Hilliard a few months before the latter's passing. Hilliard, a matinee idol for 40 years, was removed from a Cohan play and threatened suit. Cohan whined: "The trouble with you, Bob, is you are stage struck."

A police official tells me the little bonfires lit at night in the streets of Hell's Kitchen, especially west of 42d street, are signals to dope peddlers customers wait. One block there is dubbed Jitter Alley.

Tin Pan Alley is flowering again. The song publishing business was gobbled up by the movie industry in the boom days. But is now sitting up and taking notice. Irving Berlin's establishment, over old Church-still, was about the only one left when the tunemakers trekked to Hollywood. It is said that only three have amassed permanent fortunes out of song writing—Ivory Berlin, Jerome Kern and Buddy DeSylva. For the remainder, it was come easy, go easy.

The drab army of sandwich men now have a lady recruit, a good looking blonde who carries the banner for a gown shop along the library wall. In many ways she is a ringer for Frances Williams of the stage. I tried to talk to her the other afternoon and she left me reeling deep in a mauling blash. But the villain still pursued her! Later she explained: "So many guys try to get new." She further added that upturning her name would humiliate several very dear to her and I believe her. Anyway is her business.

For the first time in the history of Broadway a legitimate theater is displaying a "To Let" sign. It flutters from the facade of the Criterion at 49th.

The vicissitudes of an ornate movie cathedral recalls Corinne Griffith's thrust when asked how she liked it at the grand opening. "Horrible," she fumed. "It's like a new tooth—all gold."

Nothing is so obvious as a husband pining for a night out. The wife of a friend confides that when he stands before the mirror brushing his hair and yawning, "I think I'll hit the hay early"—she knows he will round in with the milkman.

Was Kreuger "Suicide" a Gigantic Hoax?

Swedish Authorities Seek Match King's Gold Cache, While Rumors Fly That Cremated Coffin Contained Only Wax Figure.

That Ivar Kreuger did not commit suicide in his Paris penthouse as the world was led to believe, but is, in fact, alive, is the startling rumor that is going the rounds in Europe. It is claimed that several persons who were present at the cremation services of the supposedly dead financier noticed a strong odor of burning wax, giving rise to the belief that the coffin contained only a wax effigy of the Swedish financial wizard. Proof that the rumor is receiving some degree of credence from investigation authorities is seen in the activity they are displaying in endeavoring to trace $200,000,000 in gold which Kreuger is said to have secured before he took his way out, either by suicide or trick disappearance. In almost every country in the world, financial institutions and safe deposit companies are co-operating with Swedish investigators who are endeavoring to find the huge cache of precious metal. Hilda Aberg, who was house-keeper of Kreuger's million dollar penthouse in New York, has been questioned, but was unable to throw any light on the movements of the financier. To prove or disprove the persistent rumor that Kreuger's suicide was not "on the level" it has been suggested in the Swedish capital that the ashes in the cremated coffin be subjected to analysis by experts. However, the investigating officials are concentrating on the search for the bullion, believing that if they locate it Kreuger will not be far off.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in hives. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

SMOLDERING RAGE

If one were looking for favorable signs in an unfavorable time and happened to be of a disposition to reprove things in clashes that tended to clear the air, he might say that congressional argument of the criticism showered impartially on the house and senate is of a definitely favorable nature.

The plea addressed to both parties in congress to lay aside partisanship and unite to balance the federal budget was not well received. It was even less well received, in fact, than it might have been, because of the important fact that it bore names of great political weight.

Alfred E. Smith, Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1928 and a contender this year, was among those who criticized the conduct of congress. There were governors, scholars, politicians; the plea couldn't be brushed aside and forgotten. It called for a reaction.

The visible reaction at this writing is one of smoldering rage. Congress feels that it has been criticized unjustly. Most of the people, on the other hand, suspect that criticism has not been harsh enough by half. They, too, are experiencing a reaction of smoldering rage from another cause—bad government.

From this mental heat present in the minds of the people and their federal legislators some good will come; at least, it is pleasant to think so. Certainly it is not reasonable to imagine that such a strained relationship will continue without some successful efforts at improvement.

Congressmen must be made to realize that the people they represent are far from pleased with the conduct of public affairs. They must be convinced that the public wrath against government's criminal waste of money is something real, demanding improvement. Both sides necessarily must get good and mad sometime in the process. The people are mad; congress is mad. These are twin signs of progress on a job that should have been tackled before it grew to such monstrous proportions.

ECONOMY IN POLITICS

The pinch of hard times sharpens the contrast between those who have and those who haven't money. Wise politicians will not run the risk of losing votes by spending money ostentatiously this year.

The restraining influence of hard times may be said to have a purifying effect on politics. Unfortunately, the effect is lessened somewhat by another depression tendency to view political offices with more of longing for the salary attached thereto than the honor attendant thereon.

The extent to which he influence may be felt this year is reflected in predictions that campaign chieftains of both major parties will be reduced to approximately one million dollars each. Money is coming hard. This is destined to be the cheapest election of modern times.

Strangely enough, if it turns out to be so, it will conform with the trend of the last decade. From evidence contained in published reports, it cost almost twice as much on a vote basis to elect Warren G. Harding in 1920 as it did to elect Herbert Hoover in 1928. With the exception of the 1923 election, the cost-per-vote has been declining since Grover Cleveland's second term, when the high mark of 45 cents was reached.

The total cost of electing a president can only be guessed, and inaccurately at that. It has been charged that the national committee's expenditures represent less than one-third of the actual expenditures; that from 20 to 30 million would represent more nearly the cost of the election. Significantly, the candidate with the largest known expenditure has been the victor every year, except that of 1916, when the Democrats elected Woodrow Wilson with half the reported expenditure Republicans made for Charles Evans Hughes.

Campaign expenditures are to be made an issue in this state in the contest for the governorship. If signs can be trusted Governor White already has made reference to his "rich opponent," David S. Ingalls. It is an ironic mixture of strength and weakness; Mr. Ingalls has received support because he is wealthy enough to seek the governorship for the honor, but has been criticized at the same time because he is wealthy enough to finance a thorough campaign. The real culprit, of course, is the iniquitous direct primary, which makes of politics a series of expensive personal battles.

What Others Say

Cincinnatians not only are happy to have the Association of National Advertisers as their guests, but they are deeply interested in the discussions that are taking place at the Netherland Plaza this week, for they realize that advertising has a function of extraordinary responsibility in the difficult period of readjustment the country is now passing through.

Advertising at any time is a vital factor in the economic process as it has developed in America. Without its finely adjusted mechanism for creating markets and thereby creating work for men and women, the high standard of living and the efficient system of production peculiar to the United States would never have been possible.

But in the present period of stress, the country looks with special eagerness to the advertising policies of leading merchandisers. The profound readjustment of price levels and wage levels has enforced drastic changes in merchandising. Men and women, consumers, are likewise meeting new problems as they are obliged to readjust their own budgets. This creates a condition of misunderstanding in many quarters, and it is the special task of advertising to reestablish a bond of understanding between buyers and sellers, between merchandisers and their consuming public.

It is undoubted fact that manufacturers and retailers are offering greater values today than in a long time, so keen has become the competition of firms seeking to reestablish their volume of trade. But this becomes apparent to the public only as advertising fulfills its true function.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Vernikoff admitted knowing Curtis, saying that the shipbuilder had once trimmed him in a $5,000 deal over a boat.

HEALTH

Rose Fever Is Miserable

During the last of May and early part of June, as well as a good part of July, "rose fever" is a common complaint. This period corresponds approximately with the time the roses are in bloom.

Largely because of this coincidence, the disease has been given its name. The fact is, however, that the attacks are not produced by the rose or by rose dust. Similar symptoms have been experimentally produced by the pollen of certain grasses. But even though the disease is not properly named, undoubtedly the term will persist.

Rose fever is known by other names, particularly hay fever, while often it is called spring fever. The disease may continue into August, so it might as well be called summer fever.

Hay fever and other similar ailments are found to run in families. Although not definitely proved, the tendency may actually be hereditary.

Perhaps the most characteristic symptom is a sensation of heat and fullness in the eyes, with redness and discharge of tears. The smarting and itching are intense. Soon the eyes become inflamed and discharge more and more freely.

With many the most annoying complaint is the severe sneezing. This is the natural result of the pronounced irritation of the nose.

There is not only sneezing, but violent sneezing. The patient is made miserable—extremely uncomfortable.

On other occasions I have told you about the sensitivity tests. These tests are made by scratching the skin and applying some of the pollen extract. One test after another is made to determine what grass or pollen or other substance produces a reaction. Once the offending substance has been determined, a vaccine is made from it, and this vaccine is then given to the patient by hypodermic injection.

Although a great many claim to have been benefited by this method of treatment, there remains a doubt as to its real value. Certainly it has not yet been perfected, so that all cases are cured. Nevertheless, the ailment is so distressing that it is worth while to think about this treatment.

If one has a tendency to hay fever it is well to consult the doctor before the regular time of attack has arrived. It may be that nasal treatment will help to lessen the severity of the symptoms.

It must not be overlooked that certain food poisonings may have something to do with the trouble. All in all, the ailment is perplexing, but patient research is likely to reveal the real cause.

The Stars Say—

For Friday, May 27

A very lively day is presaged from the lunar transits, but one of contradictory or "mixed influences" of the astrologers. It is probable that personal affairs, domestic, social, romantic or artistic, may engage the attention predominantly, nevertheless there may be anxiety about employment and there is a sinister influence through duplicity, fraud or peculiar methods of underhanded dealing cautiously with mergers, rings, secret bodies or persons of doubtful temperament.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of conflicting issues. While private affairs may bring pleasure as well as profit, yet there are anxieties in employment and many quandaries as to singular angles to other relations. Peculiar occult or mysterious methods of attack may be coped with by alertness and strategy, but be on guard against duplicity, fraud and irregularities. A child born on this day should be energetic, practical and personally charming, gracious, longing to the occult, mysterious and secretive, to novelty and intrigue.

NEW YORK, May 26.—The honky-tonk tempo of that sybaritic stretch of West 42d street, stretching from Times Square to Eighth ave., has given what was once the heart of the Rialto a street carnival glitter.

It sways and thunders with the cry of the barker and the yank of the puller-in.

Along the strip is perhaps New York's best known playhouse, the New Amsterdam, long home of the Folies, West 42d street's decadence set in about eight years ago when a Flea Circus combined with a museum of "strange people" lodged there and became the rotting speck in the apple barrel.

Cheap-joint shops and take-joints seeped in. The famous Murphys with revolving dance floor, was supplanted by one-armed beaneries. Seaside stores became auction rooms with window demonstrations and a pavement ballyhoo. Even a tape-worm destroyer.

The Republic, housing the longest run in history, "Abie's Irish Rose," went cheaply burlesque and featured "strip acts." Two other theaters of erstwhile respectability took a similar nose dive. A playhouse where Marlowe starred specialized in thrillers with "Eliza-crossing-the-ice" music.

The New Amsterdam, George White's Apollo, the Selwyn, and one or two others continue with class attractions, but the rest cater to vulgarities. Rents have sagged and respectable producers are searching for new locations. Property owners are now trying to lock their stables after the horses are gone.

After midnight furtives hawk obscene postcards from doorways. Ladies stop at windows in expectant waits. Columbus Circle dope sellers have a new pasture. And night hawks of the taxis whisper addresses of houses-of-call. As Eddie, the Times Square newsie, put it: "They have certainly loused up a good block."

One of the sly optimists is a gentleman whose Cuban sugar bonds are in default. In a mad effort to restore coupon payments he sneaks lumps of cane sugar into his pocket to toss in the sewers.

George M. Cohan tiffed with the late Robert Hilliard a few months before the latter's passing. Hilliard, a matinee idol for 40 years, was removed from a Cohan play and threatened suit. Cohan whined: "The trouble with you, Bob, is you are stage struck."

A police official tells me the little bonfires lit at night in the streets of Hell's Kitchen, especially west of 42d street, are signals to dope peddlers customers wait. One block there is dubbed Jitter Alley.

Tin Pan Alley is flowering again. The song publishing business was gobbled up by the movie industry in the boom days. But is now sitting up and taking notice. Irving Berlin's establishment, over old Church-st., was about the only one left when the tunemakers trekked to Hollywood. It is said that only three have amassed permanent fortunes out of song writing—Ivory Berlin, Jerome Kern and Buddy DeSylva. For the remainder, it was come easy, go easy.

The drab army of sandwich men now have a lady recruit, a good looking blonde who carries the banner for a gown shop along the library wall. In many ways she is a ringer for Frances Williams of the stage. I tried to talk to her the other afternoon and she left me neck deep in a mounting blush. But the villain still pursued her! Later she explained: "So many guys try to get me." She further added that upstirring her name would humiliate several very dear to her and I believe her. Anyway is her business.

For the first time in the history of Broadway a legitimate theater is displaying a "To Let" sign. It flutters from the facade of the Ritz-Carlton at 49th.

The vicissitudes of an ornate movie cathedral recalls Corinne Griffith's thrust when asked how she liked it at the grand opening. "Horrible," she fumed. "It's like a new tooth—all gold."

Was Kreuger "Suicide" a Gigantic Hoax?

Swedish Authorities Seek Match King's Gold Cache, While Rumors Fly That Cremated Coffin Contained Only Wax Figure.

That Ivar Kreuger did not commit suicide in his Paris penthouse as the world was led to believe, but is, in fact, alive, is the startling rumor that is going the rounds in Europe. It is claimed that several persons who were present at the cremation services of the supposedly dead financier noticed a strong odor of burning wax, giving rise to the belief that the coffin contained only a wax effigy of the Swedish financial wizard. Proof that the rumor is receiving some degree of credence from investigation authorities is seen in the activity they are displaying in endeavoring to trace $200,000,000 in gold which Kreuger is said to have secured before he took his way out, either by suicide or trick disappearance. In almost every country in the world, financial associations and safe deposit companies are co-operating with Swedish investigators who are endeavoring to find the huge cache of precious metal. Hilda Aberg, who was house-keeper of Kreuger's million dollar penthouse in New York, has been questioned, but was unable to throw any light on the movements of the financier. To prove or disprove the persistent rumor that Kreuger's suicide was not "on the level" it has been suggested in the Swedish capital that the ashes in the cremated coffin be subjected to analysis by experts. However, the investigating officials are concentrating on the search for the bullion, believing that if they locate it Kreuger will not be far off.

Strawberries Here Again

Housewives will be glad to learn that one of the most wonderful strawberry crops in recent years is crowding the local markets. Jelly makers in particular will see in these berries the opportunity to start stocking their jam and jelly cupboards for the winter months that lie ahead.

Here are three tested recipes that the housewife will want to use. You will notice that all of them call for the modern, short-boil method. This method is suggested because it offers the most economical way to make jelly—since it increases the number of glasses that can be secured from a given amount of fruit.

Spiced Strawberries

4 cups (2 lbs.) prepared fruit
6½ cups (2½ lbs.) sugar
½ cup vinegar
1 teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves, allspice
½ bottle (½ cup) fruit pectin

Use fully ripe berries. To prepare fruit, cut small or medium berries in halves lengthwise; large berries in quarters.

Measure sugar, prepared fruit, vinegar, and spices into large kettle, mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 3 minutes. Remove from fire and stir in pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for just 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 10 eight-ounce glasses.

Measure sugar and prepared fruit into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard ½ minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 11 eight-ounce glasses.

Sliced Strawberry Jam

4½ cups (2 lbs.) prepared fruit
7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar
½ bottle (½ cup) fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, cut about 2 quarts fully ripe berries in halves lengthwise; large berries in quarters.

Remove from fire and stir in pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for just 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. TODAY

"If there is to be a discussion of the proper relations of husband and wife I think it had better come from judges who have more than a theoretical knowledge of such relations."

The opinion that a British wife owns and can control herself is startling in England, where until recently there had been no change in the ruling that said that a husband might beat his wife providing he used a stick no bigger around than his thumb.

HERE in America we have what might be called a conservative government by high finance and big corporations. Nobody will deny that they represent the real power in the United States. About one out of six of our workers is idle. And we mean, naturally.

In New Zealand they have exactly the other kind of a government, "run for the people, by the workmen," a pretty good imitation of "proletarian" government, without the soviet trimmings. And in New Zealand two out of three workmen are idle. The workers are rebelling against their government, and are in miserable condition. In a depression any kind of government may be the wrong kind.

"Lindy Lady" Their Guest

While all England is enthusiastically acclaiming the feat of Amelia Earhart Putnam, the daring young aviatrix is resting as the guest of United States Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon in the English capital. As Amelia, did not bring a wardrobe with her on her solo flight across the Atlantic, the important matter of feminine finery was taken care of by Mrs. David K. Bruce (left), Ambassador Mellon's daughter and official Embassy hostess. King George has expressed a desire to meet the daring flyer and it is probable that Mr. Mellon will introduce his famous countrywoman at the palace.

Hubby Proud of "Lady Lindy"

The most ardent supporter Amelia Earhart Putnam had in planning her successful solo flight across the Atlantic was friend husband, George Putnam, prominent New York publisher. On receiving word of safe arrival of the daring aviatrix at Londonderry, Ireland, Mr. Putnam asked reporters to refer to his wife as "Miss Earhart," stating the glory should be entirely hers. This photo shows the Putnams shortly after their marriage last year.

Tri-County League Athletes Compete In Meet Here Saturday

23 SALEM HIGH ATHLETES END SCHOLASTIC CAREERS THIS YEAR

THE DAY IN SPORTS

STATE TRACK CHAMPIONS CLEVELANDERS FAVORED LAKEWOOD MAY REPEAT

Here are the point results of the 1931 Class A meet:
Lakewood 27.
Salem High 26.6.
Sandusky 22.
Akron East 17.
Columbus Central 16.1.

TWO GREAT Cleveland High school track and field squads should continue to dominate state championship competition when schoolboy athletes clash in the annual Ohio Interscholastic meet at Columbus tomorrow and Saturday and for the second straight year it appears that Northeastern Ohio athletes will dominate in the battle for the title.

The Clevelanders will represent the 1931 champion, Lakewood High school, and East Technical High, a potential leader in Buckeye athletics that looms as a great power with its triple-threat athlete, Jesse Owens. There will be 1,200 athletes representing other schools of the state, both in Class A and Class B competition, but there is every indication that the two Cuyahoga county aggregations will be the leaders when points are tabulated at completion of the classic.

This is in all justice to the ability of nine great Salem High athletes who brought their school to a great triumph in last week's sectional games at Youngstown. The Quakers will also rank among the leaders in the meet but in order to win the meet they will have to flash form that will surprise even the most ardent and optimistic hometown backers.

Salem High athletes are never beaten while there is still a chance for victory. A year ago they said the Red and Black wasn't in it but Coach Stone's great combination of track and field talent pulled through within four-tenths of a point for first place and a share of the title.

LAKEWOOD'S victory a year ago finally broke the monopoly Columbus Central High held on the state crown. For four years the Central athletes won the title with Lakewood in second place. In the 24 years the meet has been staged, Northeastern Ohio schools have won it only ten times.

Lakewood was the winner five times, Cleveland East Tech three and Cleveland Shaw three times. Schools of this section have attained the runner-up position no less than 11 times, Salem being given this position in standings twice, in 1931 and in 1916.

Here's a record of performances of Salem athletes in the meet a year ago: (The star indicates that the same lads will be competing in this event or some other in this year's contest).

Harold Walker won the mile, 4 m. 35s.

Wilfred Brantingham second in the mile.

William Smith won the discus, 121 ft. 1.4 n.

*Harold Horstman third in half mile.

*Purn Sidinger tied for fifth in high jump.

*Ed Beck tied for second in pole vault.

Henry Reese fourth in 220-yd. low hurdles.

Donald Lease placed third in broad jump.

Six Sports Hit When Varsity Players Get Diplomas; Stars Back

Twenty-three Salem High athletes, members of varsity athletic teams in six sports, will be among the 136 graduates receiving diplomas in the school's sixty-eighth annual commencement exercises in the school auditorium tonight.

Athletes ranking among the best in their respective sports in recent years are among those ending their scholastic careers.

Many Stars Back
Despite the loss of these 23 varsity performers, graduation is not expected to deal too harshly with the school's athletic activities for the coming year. There will be a large number of varsity performers returning next year in each of the sports.

Sports affected are football, basketball, track, cross country, golf and tennis.

Heading the list of the graduates is R. Edwin Beck, winner of varsity awards in football, basketball and track and recognized as one of the greatest gridirers in the school's history. Norman B. Early, John D. French, Jack A. Carpenter and Edward L. Raymond, outstanding members of Coach Floyd W. Stone's 1931 football eleven, will also graduate.

"Gordy" Scullion Graduates
Gordon C. Scullion, football, basketball and tennis star, last year district champion in doubles, E. Beck, Early, Edgar E. Wilms and Walter S. Linder are cagers who will be missed next year.

In track Ed. Beck, his twin brother, Harry Irwin, Harold LeRoy Horstman, record-breaking mile runner, and William Miller, and Ed. Raymond are graduating together with several other members of the squad.

Four members of Wilbur Springers' golf team, Joseph Harrington, Joseph Kaiser, Carl McQuilken and Andrew Ulrich will receive diplomas while Scullion is the only graduate on the tennis squad, coached by Herbert Jones.

Irwin Beck and Harold Horstman, the latter now holding the state cross country record and both leading members of the team which won the Ohio crown two years in a row, will be missed by Coach R. B. Clark when he lines up his harriers next fall.

Girls' basketball loses seven players.

List of "Grads"

Here is the list of graduating athletes:

FOOTBALL—John L. Barnes, Lorin E. Battin, Robert Edwin Beck, Harry Irwin Beck, Jack A. Carpenter, Michael Corso, Norman B. Early, James R. Fisher, John D. French, Julius R. Julian, Raymond H. Mott, Charles P. Paxson, Adam Pukalski, Edward L. Raymond, Gordon Clement Scullion, Lionel Raymond Smith.

McMULLEN SETS MARK IN MILE

North High Wins Championship of Akron; Garfield Star Sets Mark of 4 Min. 29.3 Sec.

AKRON, May 26.—Four city records fell before the assault of high school athletes in the annual scholastic track meet here Wednesday.

North High won the title with a total of 64 points. It was the first track championship ever won by North.

Garfield led through the greater part of the meet and finished second with 58 points. West tied Central, the defending champion, at 34 points each. South tallied 27½, East 21½ and Buchtel 11.

Sharon McMullen, Garfield captain, ran the mile in 4 min. 29.3 sec. for a new record. Rabb of North tossed the discus 120 ft. 3½ in. for another record.

Walker Favored In Bout With Paulino

NEW YORK, May 26.—Although he will be forced to concede some 25 pounds in weight and six inches in height, Mickey Walker, the modern giant-killer, has been established as a 7 to 5 favorite in his 10-round bout with Paulino Uzcudun tonight at Madison Square Garden.

The Rumson Bulldog has been training seriously for weeks and is said to be in equally fine condition as when he held Jack Sharkey to a draw here last summer. That, and the fact that Walker always has shown at his best against big men, has caused the experts to favor him over the Basque.

The consensus was it would go the full route.

For Walker, the bout means a possible chance against Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, with the winner to challenge next for the heavyweight title. For Paulino it means only a chance to upset another ambitious young man.

GRIMES PITCHES CUBS TO 2-0 WIN OVER CARDINALS

Chicagoans Maintain Fast Pace In League Fight; Braves Ahead Again

(By Associated Press)
Burleigh Grimes admitted from the witness chair only three days ago that he was just about "washed up" as a big league pitcher, but he never would have gotten away with it had the St. Louis Cardinals been sitting in judgment.

The Red Birds were ready to swear today that the 36-year-old spitballer still has plenty of joints left in his right arm. All they needed to refresh their memories was a glance of yesterday's box score.

Toiling for the Chicago Cubs, he set his old comrades down with seven scattered hits and shut them out, 3 to 0. It was Grimes fourth start for the Cubs and his third victory.

The triumph not only was a source of satisfaction to the veteran, but was a great help to the Cubs in their neck and neck scrap with Boston for the National league top, enabling them to stay within eight percentage points of the pace-setting Braves.

Braves Trim Brooklyn

Bobby Brown, the 20-year-old sensation from Binghamton, kept the Braves at the head of the class by defeating Brooklyn, 4 to 2, on four hits.

For the third straight day the Giants and Phils engaged in an old-fashioned slugfest, and the Giants made it two out of three for the series by winning, 12 to 8. Fumbles by Heath and Hafe helped Pittsburgh score five runs in the first inning and eventually trim Cincinnati 9 to 4, for the second straight day.

"MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY"

THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY
BY ANTHONY ABBOT

SYNOPSIS
Despite the police guard placed in her home by Commissioner Thatcher Colt, Lola Carewe, suspected "higher-up" of a jewel thief ring, is mysteriously murdered. Dr. Hugh Baldwin gives heart failure as the cause of death. Those present at the time, besides Colt and his aides, were Lola's mother, Mrs. Carewe; the butler, maid, and Vincent Rowland, an attorney. Colt feels the young man whose photograph adorns Lola's dresser—and whose identity she refused to reveal beyond his first name "Basil"—is connected with the mystery. At the mention of his name, Mrs. Carewe becomes hysterical, saying Lola was a cruel beast and never loved Basil. Christine Quires, Lola's guest, cannot be located, although the elevator boy claims she returned around midnight with her escort, Guy Everett, and Colt found the bag she carried. Colt phones Everett's apartment after 3 a. m. and learns Everett has not arrived. A clue in the form of a small wooden box is picked up under Lola's window. Chung, the butler, reveals that Everett had threatened Lola and that Rowland, the lawyer, warned her she was playing a dangerous game and would be caught. Eunice, the maid, is called next.

"Lola and Miss Christine were both scared of one man—Guy Everett," Eunice disclosed

CHAPTER FIFTEEN
"Have you any suspicions of how the parrot and the dog died?" Colt asked.
"I don't know a thing about it."
"Have you heard any quarrels in this house?"
Even frightened as she was, the girl curled her pinched lips at this question.
"I didn't hear much else," was her reply.
"Hear any tonight?"
"Sure, I heard them all. I heard Mr. Rowland and Miss Lola having it hot and heavy. And also, this afternoon, I heard Mrs. Carewe and Miss Christine having it, too."
"And what could they be quarreling about?"
"I don't know. I heard Miss Christine say she had to have her money back. And Mrs. Carewe said it wasn't any of her business. And Miss Christine said it would have to be somebody's business. And Mrs. Carewe said to see Lola about it. And Christine said all right—if Lola lived that long. And Mrs. Carewe had hysterics."
"And when did you say this was?"
"Late this afternoon. Miss Lola was out. And Mrs. Carewe had just come home from the show."
Colt looked at the girl with a long glance of appraisal. Somehow she gave the impression of not being entirely frank.
"How did Lola and her mother get on together?" he next inquired.
"Oh, they quarreled and made up all the time. Just like all families. Lola said once that she could easily kill her mother—but she was awful mad, then, and that was a long time ago. Of late they seemed a lot closer—I don't know why."
"Do you remember ever hearing Lola Carewe express any fear of any particular person?" asked Dougherty.
"Did she, for instance, ever say she was afraid somebody might try to take her life?"
Eunice James wrinkled the freckled whiteness of her forehead. Her eyes brightened.
"Lola and Miss Christine were both scared of one man—she told me so," she disclosed. "He was an actor boy friend of hers—Guy Everett—the fellow who took Miss Christine out tonight."
"But why should they be afraid of Mr. Everett?" pursued Dougherty.
"Miss Christine called him a hypo—hypo—something or other."
"A hypochondriac?"
"He was always down in the mouth, always tired out, she said; always holding his hand to his belt and making a face."
"And she actually told you she was afraid of him?"
"Sure. She told me how she and Miss Carewe advised him about some investments. On account of taking her advice, he lost all his money. Miss Christine was always afraid he would try to get even with her and Miss Lola."
"How long ago did she discuss that with you?"
"Just the other day."
Here was a startling new angle. Lola Carewe and Christine Quires, her bosom friend, had advised Everett about his investments! Where could such a trail as that lead us? Colt might have followed this up

News Through Camera's Eye

"Knew She Could Do It"

Here is Mrs. Amy Otis Earhart, mother of aviation's greatest heroine, at her home in Boston listening for reports of her daughter's daring flight across the Atlantic. "I knew she could do it!" exclaimed the proud mother, as word of Mrs. Putnam's safe arrival in Ireland was received.

Was Larry's Face Red?

Demonstrating this plane to possible buyers at Detroit, Mich., Pilot Larry Priestman, of the Towle Aircraft Company, had a little mishap which resulted in the capsizing of the amphibian in the Detroit River. Priestman and his two mechanics were rescued by the police boat shown towing the craft, but what an embarrassing moment for the airplane salesman!

'MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY'

THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY

BY ANTHONY ABBOT

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY CONYER-FRIEDL, INC., DISTRIBUTED BY KIM FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

Despite the police guard placed in her home by Commissioner Thatcher Colt, Lola Carewe, suspected "higher-up" of a jewel thief ring, is mysteriously murdered. Dr. Hugh Baldwin gives heart failure as the cause of death. Those present at the time, besides Colt and his aides, were Lola's mother, Mrs. Carewe; the butler, maid, and Vincent Rowland, an attorney. Colt feels the young man whose photograph adorns Lola's dresser—and whose identity she refused to reveal beyond his first name "Basil"—is connected with the mystery. At the mention of his name, Mrs. Carewe becomes hysterical, saying Lola was a cruel beast and never loved Basil. Christine Quires, Lola's guest, cannot be located, although the elevator boy claims she returned around midnight with her escort, Guy Everett, and Colt found the bag she carried. Colt phones Everett's apartment after 3 a. m. and learns Everett has not arrived. A clue in the form of a small wooden box is picked up under Lola's window. Chung, the butler, reveals that Everett had threatened Lola and that Rowland, the lawyer, warned her she was playing a dangerous game and would be caught. Eunice, the maid, is called next.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

"Have you any suspicions of how the parrot and the dog died?" Colt asked.

"I don't know a thing about it." "Have you heard any quarrels in this house?"

Even frightened as she was, the girl curled her pinched lips at this question.

"I didn't hear much else," was her reply.

"Sure, I heard them all. I heard Mr. Rowland and Miss Lola having it hot and heavy. And also, this afternoon, I heard Mrs. Carewe and Miss Christine having it, too."

"And what could they be quarreling about?"

"I don't know. I heard Miss Christine say she had to have her money back. And Mrs. Carewe said it wasn't any of her business. And Miss Christine said it would have to be somebody's business. And Mrs. Carewe said to see Lola about it. And Christine said all right—if Lola lived that long. And Mrs. Carewe had hysterics."

"And when did you say this was?"

"Late this afternoon. Miss Lola was out. And Mrs. Carewe had just come home from the show."

Colt looked at the girl with a long glance of appraisal. Somehow she gave the impression of not being entirely frank.

"How did Lola and her mother get on together?" he next inquired.

"Oh, they quarreled and made up all the time. Just like all families. Lola said once that she could easily kill her mother—but she was awful mad, then, and that was a long time ago. Of late they seemed a lot closer—I don't know why."

"Do you remember ever hearing Lola Carewe express any fear of any particular person?" asked Dougherty.

"Did she, for instance, ever say she was afraid somebody might try to take her life?"

Eunice James wrinkled the freckled whiteness of her forehead. Her eyes brightened.

"Lola and Miss Christine were both scared of one man—she told me so," she disclosed. "He was an actor boy friend of hers—Guy Everett—the fellow who took Miss Christine out tonight."

"But why should they be afraid of Mr. Everett?" pursued Dougherty.

"Miss Christine called him a hypo—hypo—something or other."

"A hypochondriac?"

"He was always down in the mouth, always tired out, she said; always holding his hand to his belt and making a face."

"And she actually told you she was afraid of him?"

"Sure. She told me how she and Miss Carewe advised him about some investments. On account of taking her advice, he lost all his money. Miss Christine was always afraid he would try to get even with her and Miss Lola."

"Just the other day."

Here was a startling new angle. Lola Carewe and Christine Quires, her bosom friend, had advised Everett about his investments! Where could such a trail as that lead us? Colt might have followed this up directly, but he was too shrewd a policeman to make such a blunder. Instead he boldly switched the course of his examination.

"Lola and Miss Christine were both scared of one man—Guy Everett," Eunice disclosed

"Do you know anything about the relations between Doctor Baldwin and Miss Carewe?" asked Dougherty suddenly.

The maid opened her eyes very wide.

"Not much," she temporized. "But I did hear an awful row one night."

"Hear anything that was said?"

"Well—Doctor Baldwin said plenty. He told Miss Lola his life was ruined if she told what they knew."

"You heard that?"

"Oh, yes, sir—I heard it!"

"Hear anything else?"

"Not that I remember just now, sir!"

"When was this quarrel?"

"About two months ago, I guess."

A knocking was heard at the door. It was one of Flynn's men with the message that Mr. Guy Everett had arrived in company with a detective.

"Show him in at once," directed Thatcher Colt, dismissing the maid with a word of thanks. On the threshold she passed the actor who was to be our next witness—and one about whom she had just given us startling information. Was I mistaken—or did a glance of understanding pass between them?

Guy Everett was a tall and handsome middle-aged man, with a slightly gray mustache. Outside of the elevator boy, here was the last person known to have seen Christine Quires, the friend of the murdered Lola, and whose disappearance was already one of the grave and complicating factors in this mystery. Mr. Everett seemed to be in a pitiful mental condition. The man was shaken by intermittent tremors, his bluish lips actually seemed puffed out with fear, and his eyes rolled as if out of gear, their muscles no longer under control.

"Mr. Colt," he burst out passionately, "why am I not told what has happened? Where is Miss Carewe—or Miss Quires?"

"Mr. Everett," said Thatcher Colt, "how long have you known Lola Carewe?"

"About three years, I suppose—she is an old friend of mine."

"Were you attracted to her?"

"Well, I don't know exactly what you mean by being attracted to her. I saw a bit of her. Has anything happened?"

"Were you fond of her?"

"Well, I took her around a bit, yes."

"There was no love affair?"

"Oh, absolutely and positively not at all, under any circumstances, no! Nothing of the kind, Mr. Colt! No, sir, no. Nothing like that!"

"Just friends."

"Nothing more!"

"When did you make this engagement for tonight?"

"Oh, about three weeks ago. I say, you couldn't let me have a spot, could you?"

"A five spot?" asked Flynn, who had taken an instantaneous dislike to this sleek and well-groomed performer.

"A spot of Scotch! I feel absolutely rizzled at all this."

"In this country," Flynn explained heavily, "liquor is against the law."

"What time did you come here tonight?" resumed Colt.

"About nine o'clock."

"And what time did you leave with Miss Quires?"

"About half past nine."

"Knew She Could Do It"

Here is Mrs. Amy Otis Earhart, mother of aviation's greatest heroine, at her home in Boston listening for reports of her daughter's daring flight across the Atlantic. "I knew she could do it!" exclaimed the proud mother, as word of Mrs. Putnam's safe arrival in Ireland was received.

Appear in "Scarface" at State

Paul Muni and Karen Morley in a scene from "Scarface."

THEATER Attractions

"LOVE AFFAIR" plays today only, as the State's attraction. It has as its star, Dorothy Mackall and is taken from the Ursula Parrott novel. Miss Mackall as Carol, a beautiful heiress who thinks love is but a game plays her role with a vivaciousness that is altogether charming.

She looks stunning and gives a convincing and sympathetic performance—gay and scintillating in some scenes, pathetically appealing in others. Humphrey Bogart is excellent as Jimmy Leonard. Astrid Allwyn, Hale Hamilton and Bradley Page are others in the cast who share in the acting honors.

Lavish settings and beautiful costumes give the picture production value.

COMING ENTERTAINMENT at the State features Friday and Saturday, one of the finest dramas of the year. It is the Howard Hughes presentation—"Scarface."

It boasts an excellent cast composed of Paul Muni, Ann Dvorak, Karen Morley, Osgood Perkins, C. Henry Gordon, George Raft, Vince Barnett, Harry J. Vejar, Edwin Maxwell, Henry Armetta, Bert Starkey, Ines Palange, Boris Kar-

Rescued Rescuer

Flying into the icy wastes in the vicinity of Fairbanks, Alaska, to search for missing members of the ill-fated University of Chicago cosmic ray expedition, Pilot S. E. Robbins shattered a skid on his plane while landing near Mount McKinley and was unable to take off again. He was later rescued with Percy Olton and Nicholas Spadevechia, by Jerry Jones, Alaskan flier.

German Remedy Stops 30-Year Constipation

"For 30 years I had a bad stomach and constipation. Storing food from stomach choked me. Since taking Adlerika I am a new woman. Constipation is thing of the past."—Alice Burns.

Most remedies reach only lower bowel. That is why you must take them often. But this simple German remedy Adlerika washes out BOTH upper and lower bowel. It brings out all gas and rids you of poison you would never believe was in your system. Even the FIRST dose will surprise you. J. H. Reduced 30 Pounds Never Felt Better

Safe Way To Lose Fat

Take the case of Miss Madelone Crowley, for instance, who lives in Little Rock, Ark. Just read her letter:

"I have used Kruschen Salts for one year—when I started I weighed 140 pounds—now I weigh 110 pounds and never felt better in my life."

That's the big reason a host of men and women take Kruschen to lose weight—as the fat goes you gain in health—skin clears—eyes grow bright—activity replaces indolence.

Take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—cut down on fatty meats, potatoes and sweets—a jar of Kruschen that costs but a trifle lasts 4 weeks—get it at Lease Drug Co. and Broadway Lease Drug Store or any drug store in the world—but for your health's sake demand and get Kruschen Salts.
